Lemon CRUSH

Buddy isn't really afraid. For no one—least of all Funny-Face—could be so cruel as to deprive him of his bottle of Orange-Crush.

Here are six reasons why Orange-Crush is so utterly delicious: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges—which gives that delicious and distinctive flavor; (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons, and limes) —which gives the tang; (3) Orange Juice; (4) Carbonated water—which gives "life," sparkle, purity; (5) U. S. Certified food color—which makes it as appealing to the eye as to the taste; (6) Pure cane sugar.

That's all. My, what a drink!

Try one today, fresh off the ice.

The standing of Smith was unchanged from twentieth ballot. Davis added three, bringing his count up to 125. Underwood was unchanged from the previous ballot with 45½. Gov. Bryan dropped out of the fight when Nebraska called, seven of his votes going for McAdoo. Ohio stood fast with 60 for Cox despite some sentiment to divide between Smith and Davis. Illinois with 58 passed but after an earnest conference scattered votes as before. Leaders stood: McAdoo 439, Smith 307½.

OHIO PREPARING TO AID VICTIMS

Working for Relief of Storm Sufferers Throughout Wrecked Portions.

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 1.—Ohio will take care of its own disaster and relieve distress in the tornado-swept cities of Lorain and Sandusky, Governor Donahey announced today.

A commission has been appointed by the governor to handle relief work and the state emergency board will be asked to place 50,000 at the disposal of this commission.

Every bank in the state has been named a depository and collector of funds and all subscriptions will be cleared through the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

The commission will meet today at Cleveland to formulate plans for carrying on its work. Governor Donahey, J. Arthur Jeffer, manager of the Washington district, American Red Cross, and Henry Baker, national director of disaster relief, will meet with the commission.

Decision to have the state provide relief was reached at a conference between the governor and a commission of Columbus business men and manufacturers. Funds from without the state will not be spurned but no outside aid will be solicited, the commission decided.

The commission asked the governor to make provision for cooking food sent to the storm sufferers. The governor immediately ordered 300 oil stoves to be delivered this morning. Gas mains are broken and it will be weeks before gas is available, the governor said.

SATISFIED OVER DAVIS' SHOWING

Steady Advance Noticed With Delight By Friends—Votes Are Voluntary.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Steady advance of strength shown by John W. Davis during the balloting for final today aroused his West Virginia friends to whoops of delight every time a new county was heard from.

With the exception of the West Virginia delegation all of the votes rolled for Mr. Davis, it was said, came as a result of the voluntary work of men in various delegations who are for him as second choice. The generous applause from the galleries was also pleasing to the West Virginians as it added to their expectation of getting a good share of the big New York vote should it abandon the governor's standard.

The Davis men all along have had little to say as to the specific votes they could count on in a break from the leaders. They have done a lot of work very quietly, however, and said tonight they were well satisfied with the way the situation had developed for their candidate in advance of the time when a real effort to swing the convention to his standard can be made.

AUTO PLUNGE IS FATAL TO WOMAN

Mrs. Freeman Howard Killed When Car Goes Down Bank—Baby Injured.

HARLAN, July 1.—Mrs. Freman Howard was killed when the motor car driven by her husband, Capt. Howard, plunged down a high embankment today. Breaking of the steering gear is said to have caused the accident. An infant which Mrs. Howard held in her arms at the time of the accident was seriously, probably fatally, injured.

The car was traveling at a low rate of speed when the defect in the steering apparatus caused the accident. The deceased is one of the most prominent women in this county. Capt. Howard is in charge of Company G, 149th Regiment.

Jacksonville Disaster Brings Wide Destruction

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 2.—The upper part of Main street here today was enveloped by a fire which destroyed the large warehouse building occupied by the Quacker Oats company, the Booth Fisheries and the St. John's River boat line. The steamship Magnolia, which runs between Jacksonville and Mandarin, and which was tied to the dock, was practically destroyed by flames and water.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Inability of firemen to get water into the building caused the flames to spread rapidly and the entire fire department was called to the scene, including the new fire boat.

Owing to high winds and the location of the fire it was at first feared that the flames might spread to the entire lower end of the city. First estimate of actual loss was fixed at $52,000.

KOREA IN FEAR OF RED REGIME

Bolshevism and Communism Growing In Strength—Move to Unify Local Bodies.

Associated Press.

SEOUL, July 1.—Unrest is increasing in Korea and rebellious elements, inclining to bolshevism and communism, are growing in strength, according to a statement issued recently by the Korean government-general here.

The statement says the Japanese authorities in Korea have good reason to fear insurgency and bolshevism will develop into a serious danger within the next few years, and have decided to reinforce the gendarmerie in the peninsula and the guards along the northern frontier.

The outstanding development in this connection, the statement declares, has been a move to unify numerous local bodies, ostensibly labor or religious associations for the secret propagation of seditious of bolshevist ideas. The Japanese authorities have listed 171 such organizations, and ordered the dissolution of the majority of these.

FIRE CHIEF ASKS FOR SANE FOURTH

Louisville Fire Department Asks Co-operation Asks Co-operation of Public on Holiday.

LOUISVILLE, July 1.—"If some display of fireworks is considered imperative in this city on July Fourth let them be set off only in a properly safeguarded public function which the children can enjoy without danger and where there is no exposure to burnable property," Fire Chief Alex Bache says in a warning he issued to the public today.

"Let's make this the safest, most sensible and, at the same time, most memorable Fourth ever known in Louisville," Chief Bache says further, after declaring that "many a battle in the Revolutionary War did not claim a tenth of the toll of human life that has been paid in a century of Fourth-of-July celebrations.

"Thousands of parents who, even before the restrictions came, forbade their children to celebrate in the old-fashioned way, still allow them to play with sparklers, toy balloons and other pyrotechnics which they believe harmless," Chief Bache says. "Last year in one small town in Louisiana, however, nine little girls had their dresses ignited with sparklers, with the result that four are in their graves and the others disfigured for life."

COUNTY SCHOOLS START ON JULY 7

New Textbooks to Be Used This Year —Hours Are Announced.

Practically all the [illegible] county schools will begin the [illegible] term next Monday, July 7, according to announcement made today by Supt. Wilson.

The superintendent and board of education favor an early beginning of the county schools so that the seventh months' term may be finished before bad winter weather makes the roads almost impassable for pupils who must go long distances.

New text-books will be used this year in the county schools and 4,000 lists of the required books have been received by the superintendent for distribution among the schools.

There are at present 45 white and six colored schools in the county, exclusive of those located within incorporated towns and four graded schools at Kettles Island, Straight Creek, Four Mile and Lone Jack. These schools, which represent a consolidation of a number of small mining camp schools, are managed by a separate board of trustees. There are 105 county teachers.

Mr. Wilson reports that the county paid $2,200 for tuition of pupils above the eighth grade in the high schools of Middlesboro and Pineville last year and, with the number constantly increasing, it is likely that about $4,000 will be required for tuition next year. It is only a question of time, he believes, until the county could afford to build and maintain a high school cheaper than it can send the pupils to the city high schools.

A cumulative fund has been set aside for this purpose and several thousands of dollars have accrued to it. The superintendent, teachers and pupils are hoping for the time when they can have their own high school.

GUARD DENIES HE KILLED PATIENT

Enters Plea of Not Guilty—Trial Set for October 6—Motion for Bail Thursday.

LOUISVILLE, July 1.—Hobart Veteto under indictment for murder on five counts and charged with having caused the death of Howard Hyatt, a patient at the Central State Hospital for the Insane January 6, was arraigned in the Criminal Court yesterday.

Veteto entered a plea of not guilty and Judge A. T. Burgevin assigned his trial October 6. A motion for bail will be heard Thursday.

Veteto, in jail yesterday before going to Criminal Court said: "I am not guilty of the charges they have placed against me. When I left Louisville I went to a sanitarium at Danville, Penn., where I secured a position on a recommendation from Dr. Jillson. I worked there several weeks and went to New York and subsequently got a job in a restaurant. Had I been guilty, I would not have left my address everywhere I went."

BOUNDARY DISPUTE BOTHERS IRELAND

Numerous Legal Questions Involved In Discussion — Committee Cannot Settle.

Associated Press.

DUBLIN, July 1.—Appointment of the judicial committee of the British Privy Council to examine the legal aspects of the naming of the Irish Boundary Commission, has brought forth the statement from the former Free State attorney general, Hugh Kennedy, now a member of the Supreme Court, that "no question of interpretation of the treaty has been or can be referred to the judicial committee so far as the government of the Free State is concerned."

The work of the commission, it is pointed out, will in reality be an attempt on the part of the British government to anticipate any difficulties which might arise after the Boundary Commission has made its award, which will have the force of law and will probably automatically transfer various populations from one jurisdiction to another. Thorough investigation by th ecommittee is expected to obviate any claim that the commission was not legally constituted, with a consequent demand for nullification of its award.

Numerous legal questions are involved. As Ulster refused to appoint a member of the commission, the committee, which will represent the highest court of appeal in the empire will be called upon to decide in advance whether the British government may nominate an Ulster representative, either directly or indirectly, and what legislation is necessary to thoroughly legalise the proceedings.

ELECT COOLIDGE FOR ECONOMY

The people of the United States will be saved a billion dollars during the next fiscal year if President Calvin Coolidge is supported by Congress.

The President in his speech before the Government's Business Organization Meeting, composed of the heads of the different branches of the government made it plain that he was going to cut to the bone on all spending of the public's money. Mr. Coolidge did not mince words in his address, he made it very plain that not a dollar must be wasted and that appropriations must be kept down to actual necessities. He pointed out that the business of government had been established on an efficient basis and that he intended that it should be kept that way.

He emphaised the fact that one of the greatest perils of an extensive republic was the disregard of individual rights, he said "A government which lays taxes on the people not required by urgent public necessity and sound public policy is not a protector of liberty, but an instrument of tyranny. Unless the people can enjoy that reasonable security in the possession of their property which is guaranteed by the Constitution against unreasonable taxation, freedom is at an end.

The common man is restrained and hampered in his ability to secure food and clothing and shelter. His wages are decreased, his hours of labor are lengthened." The President pointed out in most emphatic terms that he stood today as he always has for the strictest economy in the expenditure of the people's money. He pointed out that the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, expenditures amounted to over $3,000,000,000, and that the next three years under the budget system the expenditures were brought down to $3,795,000,000, $3,087,000,000 and $3,497,000,000 respectively. He pointed out that the public debt had been reduced $2,722,000,000 during this same period and that the saving in interest alone to the people had been more than $120,000 each year.

THE NATIONAL FLOWER

The rose is the unofficial national flower of America. Thirty-seven states have designated as many different flowers as their floral emblems. The list includes the cactus, sagebrush, sunflower and golden rod. Special days have their special flowers: the lily for Easter, the poinsettia for Christmas, the carnation for mother's day.

Yet the rose remains th efirst choice for those occasions where words fail to say all that needs be said. June brings them forth in their finest profusion for the happy bride. Gay affairs are not complete without the American beauty. The sick are cheered by them. While the last token of sympathy and sorrow that man can offer to man is the spray of roses.

The rose is a national flower in a geographical as well as sentimental sense. According to a map issued by the Department of Agricultural, there are but few places in this country where a rose of some sort cannot be grown.

E. T. Meredith has said: "No decorative plant has been more closely identified with the progress of western civilization than the rose. It is an insignia alike of joy, of sorrow, of love and of war. It is a flower beloved by all. Those who contribute in any way to its propagation are adding much to [illegible] of life."

[illegible] be pushed. But the rose is the flower of infinite possibilities. No matter how perfect one bloom may seem it can be safely be said that a more perfect bloom may be achieved.

Yes, the rose is unofficially our national flower.—Ashland, Independent.

WHEN TO TURN ON AUTO LIGHTS

Somewhere in Columbia, the gem of the ocean, maybe) right here in Dixie, is the man Wijjit is looking for. He is the man who reads the almanac every day so he will know when to turn on his automobile lights at night. It is possible that he does not read the weather notes for this particular purpose, but anyway he reads them and methodically turns them on when the sun is declared down.

This is the only way Wijjit can account for the fact that all automobile lights are turned on at night, for after conducting an investigation among his friends he found that each one of them waited until they had passed a car which had the lights burning. In a recent editorial in the Bowling Green Times-Journal, there is an account of the investigation made by Wijjit. It follows:

"What songs the sirens sung, where Homer's birthplace was, such questions as these, according to the old writers, worried the ancients. But an up-to-the-minute modern like Wijjit is not worried by any such old-fashioned problems; what he asks himself is this: 'Who is the first man to light his automobile lamps on any particular evening?"

"Wijjit is an automobile owner; his own experience with light led him to conduct a little inquiry of his own. It was his own practice to wait until he saw some one else who had turned on his lights before he put his own on. He wondered idly who it was that started the thing every night. So he concluded to ask a few friends who owned cars.

"The answers that he has been given have left him more preplexed than ever. Without exception, those whom he asked admitted that they waited until they saw some one else on the road with lights turned on. Wijjit turned the results of his inquiry over in his mind; obviously, as the experience of all of them showed, there was always some car on the road that had its lights on at the proper moment. Just who was this obliging fellow, and what motive led him to turn his light on without waiting for guidance?

"The answer to that question has never occurred to Wijjit. He has a suspicion, but his suspicion can't be confirmed because the man he has in mind has never been seen. This is Wijjit's theory; the only man who could be so methodical evening after evening would be a man who reads the little notices: 'Sun sets 6:40,' and takes them seriously.

"He believes in the time appointed for the sunset; he believes equally in a time for all automobile lights to go on. Somewhere in this broad land there is a man who takes sunsets and lighting of car lamps to be matters of equal inevitability.

"There must be such a man, argues Wijjit. Otherwise the highways after dark would be filled with colliding vehicles, running without headlights, guided by the imitative tribe of Wijjit."

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEW YORK, July 1.—The old maxim that there is more pleasure in pursuit than in possession applies to politics as well as to persons.

At least the Democrats, on the outside trying to get in, have had a lot more fun out of their national convention than the Republicans, on the inside and wanting to stay, had at Cleveland.

No greater difference could be conceived in the atmosphere and activities surrounding two conventions than marked the Cleveland-New York gatherings.

The outcome at Cleveland was regarded from the first as a certainty. At New York, nothing has been certain.

At Cleveland, only one man had a look-in at the nomination. At New York, even days after the convention began, any one of a dozen entries had a sporting chance. But no one had better than a sporting chance.

The lack of suspended interest at Cleveland was responsible for the apparent absence of enthusiasm on the part of delegates and visitors. No use shouting one's head off when there's nobody to shout down.

By contrast, the very uncertainty surrounding every situation at the Democratic meeting brought an excess of fervor to the supporters and opponents of each candidate and each platform plank. The feeling that everything was in flux, that every candidate and every issue had a fighting chance, spurred even the smallest groups to earnest battle. A man might be down, but he wouldn't be out till the last vote was counted.

While there remained life there remained hope, and hope is one of the things the Democrats have most of this year.

The Cleveland convention, in temperament as well as temperature, was cool. At New York the weather man joined hands with the rival delegations to provide a hot time.

Beginning in a perspiration, the convention quickly progressed to the stage of admitted sweat. Madison Square Garden, before the proceedings had advanced even to the nominating stage, gave forth quite discernibly, something of the atmosphere that attends the annual showing there of Barnum and Bailey's circus.

But if man must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, perhaps it is equally desirable that a political party pick its candidates by the sweat of its politicians. For this sweat was mental as well as physical. Through days the whole convention remained a bubbling ferment, a seething mass of superheated humanity in a physical melting pot.

At Cleveland, just one big American flag graced the convention auditorium. In New York thousands of flags were used in making the big hall a symphony in red, white and blue.

Perhaps profiting by the experience of Republicans, the New York show was better stage-managed in its opening sessions.

The situation by which radio audiences, listening in on the Cleveland proceedings, heard many confidential and some profane asides, not intended for the ears of the audience, but which were caught by the microphone and sent sizzling through the ether, was carefully guarded against.

An operatic prima donna, leading in the singing of patriotic songs, gave real verve and color to what normally becomes merely a confused babel of off-key sound.

While platform-makers were wrestling with the problem of whether the party should be officially wet or dry, thirsty delegates and visitors of an inquisitive mind found plenty of liquid refreshment with a pre-Volstead kick. Roy Haynes, who boasted he was responsible for making the Cleveland convention dry somehow slipped up on his program for an arid Broadway.

JOHN BROWN DAYS REVIVED BY PARTNER OF ESCAPADES

SALINA, Kansas, [illegible]—Luke F. Parsons, credited with being the last surviving member of John Brown's famous band of anti-slavery zealots, celebrated his 81st birthday at his home [illegible]day, June 28. Still hale and [illegible]e tends a small garden for [illegible]es down-town frequently [illegible]s all the meetings of the [illegible]t of the G. A. R., of which he is President.

That his mind is fresh as his body appears is indicated by a reminiscent review of Brown and their pioneer struggles, recently given by Parsons:

"John Brown, Sr., arrived in Kansas in November, 1855. He arrived with arms for his five sons, who had preceded him here, and prepared to command any who would follow him. Northern immigration came slowly until the spring of 1856, and settled mostly around Topeka and Lawrence. Various conventions were held, elections observed, but all were dominated by the pro-slavery party.

"When armed men ordered citizens out, John Brown raised his voice and said: 'Has it come to the point that one party or the other must leave their homes and leave the territory? Well, I accept the challenge.'

"On the night of May 21, 1856, and the morning of May 25, John Brown struck his first blow for the freedom of Kansas. It was the beginning of the end. The next morning mounted men were gliding in every direction spreading news of the terrible murder of five men on the Pottawatomie. It would have been eight, but three could not be found. It was generally approved by the free state party, and put terror into the hearts of the enemies.

"The year of 1857 was comparatively quiet, and John Brown thought that the question of slavery in Kansas was about settled, so he determined to carry the fight into Virginia. In the fall of 1857 he selected ten young men who had been tried by fire and took us to a quiet little town in Iowa, where we were given military instructions and fitted for captains. The next spring 1858, we went to Chatham, Canada, and from there to Cleveland, Ohio, on our way to Harper's Ferry, Virginia. Brown failed to find the money to carry on our plans, so the raid was declared off for one year. Brown took three of the men back with him to Kansas.

"On December 29, 1858, Brown led a few men into Missouri and brought out 11 slaves, several wagons, yokes of oxen, clothing and provisions, arms, etc. He returned to Osawatomie, Kansas, on January 20 and started north with the slaves. On January 28 he reached Holton, Kansas, in a snow storm. It was the next day that what is sometimes called the Battle of the Spurs occurred on Spring Creek and here Brown captured several prisoners. They were taken to Nebraska and freed. On February 1, 1859 Brown left Kansas never to return."

Six of John Brown's children settled on the Pacific coast after the Civil War. Mr. Parsons related, and there are now about 70 descendants of the family living there.

Henry Thompson, a prominent member of the band, died at Pasadena, Cal., in 1903.

IDAHO HAS NEW NATIONAL PARK

"Crater of Moon" Latest Place to Be Made National Site by President Coolidge.

Associated Press.

ARCO, Idaho, [illegible]—The "Craters of the Moon" section, located about 40 miles south of here and recently made a national monument by action of President Coolidge, is so named because its weird lava formations bear a marked resemblance to the moon as seen through a telescope.

Countless years ago this area, located in a valley about 25 miles long and three miles wide, was the scene of great volcanic activity. Surrounding the district is timberland which abounds with wild animals.

A freak of the region is an immense underground cavern, hollowed out by a seething flow of molten lava and down which automobiles can be driven for a considerable distance.

Other caverns glow with phosphorescent tints of volcanic ash, dead and cold, yet presenting the appearance of an active volcano. There are no rattlesnakes or other reptiles in the district, despit the fact this similar lava territory elsewhere is literally alive with them. Why there are no snakes in the "craters" is a question which no one can decide.

The region is not far from the beaten paths of tourist travel to Yellowstone National Park.

ROAD BUILDING LESS EXPENSIVE

Weekly Bulletin Shows Main Routes of State In Good Condition—Also Detours.

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, [illegible]—Road building in Kentucky is becoming more economical a proposition of the commonwealth every day, Joe S. Boggs, state highway engineer, said today. The weekly detour and road conditions bulletin, issued by the department of state roads and highways, follows:

Eastern Dixie Highway

The road through Decoursey, Kenton and Demosville is still closed while repairs are being made south of Kenton. Southbound traffic from Cincinnati should cross the river at Newport, then go by way of Alexandria, and Grant's Lick to Butler. At Butler turn to right to avoid construction south of town, and go to the LLL road, then turn right one mile to Grassy Creek; then bear to left until LLL road is reached again, then go through Cynthiana and Paris to Lexington. Excepting a few rough places this road is in good condition to Lexington.

The LLL road south of Covington between Bank Lick Creek (a point 4 miles south of Latonia) and Piner is under construction. There are several detours and a difficult ford to cross. For safe and certain going take the Alexandria route just described.

Louisville-Paducah Road

Westbound traffic from Louisville will find the road in good condition to Camp Knox; rough through Camp Knox reservation; through Hardinsburg, Cloverport, and Hawesville to Daviess county line earth road, excellent now but muddy during rainy weather. Midland Trail

Going west from Ashland, traffic will find a paved road in good condition to the Carter County line, a distance of 13.3 miles. There is a graded earth road from Carter County line through Grayson and Olive Hill to Morehead, excellent except in rainy weather. From Morehead to Farmers is rock asphalt in excellent condition. Farmers to Owingsville fair, can be traveled at any time. Owingsville to Mt. Sterling, detour at Montgomery County line to Mt. Sterling. Detour signs at road intersections. From Mt. Sterling through Winchester, Versailles and Frankfort to Shelbyville road is in good condition. British Curb Wasteful Arab Rule in Transjordana

Associated Press.

AMMAN, Transjordania, [illegible]—Left by the British government for the last three years to set its house in order, Transjordania is again becoming virtually a part of Palestine, financially and administratively dependent on the Palestine government. It is returning in a penitent mood because its independence with the Emir Abdullah, son of King Hussein of the Hedjaz, as ruler, by the grace of the British, proved to be too wasteful and costly.

The cost of Transjordania's independence came to be in inverse proportion to the size of the British subsidy, the more self-rule at Amman, the less financial support from London. As this country's system of taxation and method of farming the tax, especially among the Bedouin tribes, is not calculated to increase the revenue, Transjordania would rather relinquish some of its right to self-determination than its claim to British gold.

To help it on its way to autonomy the British have been giving Transjordania for the last three years a grant of aid amounting to about $500,000 a year. The grant was conditioned on Emir Abdullah's early introduction of order in general, but especially into the system of taxation. Another condition was that the expenditure of the money should be supervised [illegible] by Abdullah but by Rida Pasha Rikabi, the then prime minister. [illegible] through tacit condition, [illegible] that whatever was to be done in Transjordania should be done under the watchful eyes of a British representative, known as an adviser.

Abdullah, who resented the [illegible] minister's vigilance [illegible] his financial supervision, [illegible] freely in Abdullah's expenditure on the civil and military lists, reported to amount to two-thirds of the entire British subsidy. With Rikabi's departure, however, the British subsidy became small and irregular. After an absence of about 12 months, Rikabi was invited to return to his post at Amman, the invitation, it is said being extended by the British authorities. Whether it was done with or without Abdullah's consent is not known. Rikabi resumed his duties early in May. He began by abolishing the ministries, constituting inspectors for the various departments and by calling himself chief inspector instead of prime minister. He is showing signs of an intention to institute a thorough housecleaning.

These changes followed in rapid succession the advent of Colonel Cox, formerly governor of Nablus, Palestine, as British adviser. Whether the changes are of Colonel Cox's making or ill received by Sir Herbert Samuel from Jerusalem, who in turn receives his instructions from the colonial office, it is difficult to tell at this distance. What appears to be clear is that the territory east of the Jordan, which under the Turks formed one small district of Palestine, is returning to its former status as part of the Holy Land west of the Jordan.

FIGHT FANS EAGER FOR FISTIC BOUT

Bob Ramsey and Johnny Flynn Will Stage Interesting Match at Knoxville.

KNOXVILLE, July 1.—Fistic fans of Knoxville are picking the Bob Ramsey-Johnny Flynn, 8-round mill, to be staged at The Bijou theatre Thursday night, as the premier bout of the season for Knoxville when real fighting, fast work, and hard hitting is sought. Both battlers have scored a long string of kayoes, indicating a slee-producing kick.

Perhaps the chief attraction on their records is a decision by both over Battling Budd, of Atlanta, noted Southern scrapper.

Ramsey has been going through a stiff pace for the past two weeks and is now tapering off with light workouts each afternoon and road work. In order to get real effective competition in his sparring bouts he imported a negro from Morristown who lasted a couple of days. Bob has been stepping some fast rounds with Tot Wilson.

Although Ramsey is a Knoxville product and has a large fololwing in the ring, his friends will not outnumber those who will back Johnny Flynn that night. Flynn has fought here on several occasions and his clean work and real scrapping have earned him a host of followers.

Tip O'Neil and Young Blanton, featherweights are booked to travel the 8-round semi-final.

High Altitude Causing Freak Baseball Play

Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, —Slugging believed to be unprecedented in organized baseball, a total of 261 hits in a series of seven games between the San Francisco and Salt Lake City clubs of the Pacific Coast league played at the local park recently, left the fans gasping.

An explanation other than the fallibility of pitchers was sought, since the batting orgy was participated in generally by players on both teams and affected virtually all the twirlers of the rival clubs. J. Cecil Alter, chief of the weather bureau here, hazarded the opinion that the high altitude of Salt Lake City, 4,200 feet, had something to do with it. The ball finds less resistance in the rarified atmosphere of the Utah metropolis than in the sea level cities along the Coast, the forecaster said, and the players are in better physical condition.

This theory gained support among sport writers who recalled the number of freak plays here supposedly due to atmospheric vagaries.

San Francisco won six out of the seven slugfests with a total of 150 hits and 100 runs. Salt Lake City chalked up 114 hits and 70 runs.

John Marshall Writes F. P. Scales That He Had a Good Time While Here.

That John Marshall, winner of the state golf championship, enjoyed his stay in Middlesboro as well as the tournament is indicated by the following letter to F. P. Scales, president of the Middlesboro Golf Club:

"I am a little fearful that you did not get the note, which I left at the hotel for you on leaving, and so I am writing you again to tell you how much I enjoyed the week and how I appreciate everything which was done for us.

"I can only say that I have never been to a more successful State Championship or one where a greater interest was taken by the club members in the game. My trip was an eye opener as to what Kentucky mountain hospitality means and as to how very little of it we have down here. Please show this to Mr. Miller and tell him that everything I have said goes for him too, and that I would write him likewise if I remembered his initials. Remember me to every one who you think will remember me, and please ask us to come up again soon, as I have never had as much fun in a golf tournament before.

Novel Trimming

A novel trimming effect is shown in this two piece costume of golden brown crepe de chine The bottom of the skirt and the collar of the cape are finished with hoop like bands made by inserting very wide, shirred cords into a fold of the silk, many of the newest capes and coats are finished this way and fur is eliminated This gives something of the fluffy effect of fur without its suggestion of warmth which is unwelcome in midsummer. It is scarcely possible to exaggerate this season as they are in every type of gown.

PAPERS REVEAL EARLY ROMANCE

Days of Gretna Green Recalled by the Sale of Marriage Papers at London

Associated Press

LONDON July 1—Something of the romance of Gretna Green, the little Scottish village that for more than 100 years was the haven for couples who, for one reason or another, could not be married in England, was brought to light recently in a London auction room when the original marriage certificates of nearly 1,200 runaway couples, extending over the period of 1825 1851 were sold for $1,100

Among the most romantic of the marriages the certificate of which was among those sold was that of Prince Carlo Bonbone, younger brother of King Ferdinand II, of the Two Sicilies, to Penelope Caroline Smith, of Waterford, Ireland in 1838 The couple first lived in Naples and were expelled They fled to Rome and were married there but later, upon visiting the bridegroom's sister, the Queen Regent of Spain, found themselves ostracized and were again married at Madrid When they arrived in England they were advised to go through another ceremony at Gretna Green and finally to placate the hostility of English society they were married for the fourth time at St George's, Hanover Square London

Another romantic marriage was that of Lady Adele Corisande Maud Villiers, daughter of the Earl of Jersey, who eloped in 1815 with Captain Charles Duke Ibbetson It was a coincidence that the bride's grandmother, Miss Sarah Child daughter of the founder of Child's bank had also been married at Gretna Green to Lord West Moreland, and had been pursued by her father who was only persuaded to give up the chase when one of the horses drawing his coach had been shot by his prospective son-in-law

UNITY MEETING HELD THIS WEEK

Methodists Meet at Chattanooga, Tennessee to Discuss Subject of Unification.

Associated Press

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn July 1—An echo of St will be heard on the conference floor in Chattanooga on July 2 when unification proposal of the Northern and Southern churches is brought before the special session of the General conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South

With sons and daughters of the Confederacy lined up on one side and the liberal element on the other, one of the most bitter battles in the history of the Methodist church is forecast by prominent leaders here

While the question of slavery was at the root of the split in the Methodist church in 1844 it was pointed out that this question was not the specific cause of the break A contest between civil law and ecclesiastical rulings is Bishop Haygood's outstanding reason

The Methodist church, it was said, always has been opposed to slavery, and southern delegates were of the same conviction The Southerners advocated a separate ecclesiastical organization that they might pursue their work of christianity among the late owner and slaves alike

The unification faction is under the leadership of Bishop Edwin D Mouzon of Nashville who is chairman of the Southern Commission on Unification Opposed to them is the faction under the banner of Bishop W A Candler of Atlanta senior bishop of the office

Constitutionality of the called conference is being attacked by Bishops Candler Collins Denny, B W W Darlington and J J Dickey They are strongly supported by the church in Alabama Florida Georgia and Mississippi

Methodist churchmen and laymen from all sections of the United States will meet in Chattanooga meeting, and present indications are that at least 500 delegates will be present for the important battle

SAPPHIRE MINE IS OPENED IN CEYLON

By Associated Press

COLOMBO Ceylon The largest find of sapphires ever made in Ceylon if not in the world, is reported from Pelmadulla, about 50 mile from Colombo The find is in a paddy field of an area of about two acres

The sapphire include yellow, gold purple and blue stones varying in size from 20 to 700 carats Some of them the report states, weigh about half a pound and are marvelous in color One of the best known Colombo dealers in precious stones declares the find is unprecedented one, but thinks the stones are too large What dealers now want in sapphires are stones that weigh between 4 and 20 carats, as the demand for large pendants is gone It is here the days when crowned heads and wealthy collectors would pay high prices for a single stone

Some of the stone found have been valued at about $75,000, rough polished One sapphire perfect in every respect, of excellent quality and color, free from flaw and cut perfectly, sold for $250 a carat

PRISONERS MADE TO SING AND TALK FOR SCIENTISTS

Associated Press

BERLIN One of the most interesting departments of the world war has been the foundation in Berlin of an anthropophonetic library as a part of the Prussian state library It is an aggregation of human voices perpetuated upon phonograph cylinders and was founded by Professor Wilhelm Doegen

Struck by the idea that the presence of prisoners of war from every quarter of the globe in German internment camps afforded an unique opportunity for assembling a collection of dialects and songs and pronunciations of words he undertook the task

Professor Doegen spent months visiting the prison camps in behalf of a commission of scientists and asked the prisoners to sing, tell stories and produce words and utterances characteristic of their native countries

The collection of sounds recorded on wax cylinders and metallic phonograph attachments of the early type Professor Doegen's records were greatly extended after the war Of each revolution three original plates are made with an estimated life of 1000 or 10,000 years These are carefully stored in the vaults of the library while ordinary hard rubber plates are used for the demonstrations

More lately the collection has been extended to include noises in nature such as the rustling of leaves the whistling of the wind the roar of the sea and the roll of thunder

Peons Driven Away By Land Allotments

Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, June 30—Partitioning of lands it may seem, the first effect of the national agrarian program intended to provide a plot of land for each of Mexico's long downtrodden peons is to swell the tide of emigrants to the United States, according to Gerardo Cordoba, general secretary of the National Agrarian Commission

This emigration, says Mr Cordoba results from the fact that wealthy land owners, when they learn that their peons have petitioned the national government for land, conspire with venal local authorities to institute a veritable reign of terror against the petitioners Without money or work the peons are unable to remain until the red tape envolving a division of lands is unwound and are forced to migrate

Mr Cordoba maintains however that data in the files of the commission shows that the real cause of Mexican emigration is lack of land and that virtually no emigration from sections where the good effects of the agrarian laws have been felt

Painting on Spider's Web Found by German

Associated Press

BERLIN, June 30—What is regarded as one of the most singular work of art in existence is now in the possession of a Berlin dealer It is a painting executed on a spider web and preserved by being stamped between two plates of glass, so that one can examine it on both sides The scene depicted is that of a happy family sitting together

As an interesting side piece to the painting the artist also preserved a spider web on which he had completed part of the picture when it tore This second web shows traces of his having tried in vain to patch up the tear

There is nothing to tell when the picture was painted
